ADAMS' UNION SCHOOL REGISTER,

For the Use of Public and Private Schools, Academies and Seminaries,

BEING A PART OF

"ADAMS' UNION SERIES "

The most Complete, Simple and Comprehensive System of School Registers ever published,

Adapted to the use of Teachers in every State throughout the Union.

BY OLIVER ADAMS,

The original Author and Publisher of Adams' School and Township Records, Teachers' Daily Registers, Class Books, Teachers' Reports to Parents and Guardians, School Tablets for Marking Tardiness, and all kinds of School Blanks.

Punctuality is a virtue of great importance in Society; and the want of it is a source of innumerable disadvantages and embarrassments. One small disappointment may prove the occasion of twenty or fifty great ones. Let this virtue become a habit with the child while at School, and in the active life of manhood it will not be found wanting.

Sub-Title.

THIS REGISTER belongs to and is the Property of District Number Six (6)
Fractional.
Kalamazoo County and State of Michigan

It contains a correct record of the daily attendance and punctuality of each scholar connected with the school, from the first to the last date in the Register.

Entered according to Act of Congress, in the year 18__, by OLIVER ADAMS, in the office of the Librarian of Congress at Washington

Pope, the great Poet, said:

“’Tis Education that forms the Human Mind.”

But what is Education?

Prof. Allen says, “Right Education is not book knowledge merely, nor a vast array of facts however valuable in themselves, but the building up of manhood, the development of character, the capacity to carry one’s self rightly and wisely in all life’s exigencies, the knowing how to live so as not to fail of life’s great end.”

Suggestions to Teachers and School Officers.

It is of great importance that a record of the daily attendance and punctuality of scholars attending school should be accurately kept. This is acknowledged by all progressive Educators. But to arrange a single Register so as to meet the wants of all grades of schools is a task which no Author has yet accomplished. To meet the wants of schools of every grade, the Author has arranged two separate classes of Registers entitled as follows: "Union School Registers," designed for the use of Primary and District Schools; the other entitled "The High School Register," designed for the Graded and High Schools, Academies, and Seminaries.

The method of keeping the Daily Record of attendance and punctuality is alike in all these Registers. But those for the use of Graded and High Schools contain more Summaries and Teachers' Reports than the Registers for Primary and District Schools. Together, they form the most perfect, simple, and comprehensive system of School Registers ever published. The formula below, and the explanations which follow, illustrate how they are to be kept. A record of two scholars during the five first weeks of the Fall Term for 1871 is given in the formula. The formula is intended to show one month's record only; but five weeks are represented to meet those cases where schools open on any other day of the week than Monday, and also for reckoning by the calendar months, as required by some School Laws as in the case of the State of Illinois. All entries in the Register should be made with ink, written in a plain legible hand, free from scratches and blots. Care should be observed in filling out the right day of the month in the space denoting the day of the week, and in writing the name of the month over the days contained in that month. The word "October" is placed over the last week in the formula, because the school days of that month begin on Monday, the fifth week of the term.

2	MARY JANE HOSMER.	14						E						5						5					5							5	20		100

The record of scholar number (1), John T. Mortimer, as given above, is very bad. He is represented as having been present 23 days during the five weeks, absent one whole day, two half days, tardy 18 times, and lost thereby 195 minutes, a little more than half of another whole school day. However, he is improving. The last week of the five he has been present every day, only once tardy, and lost only five minutes during the week—there is hope for John yet—only keep his record in the register, and report to his parents every week, according to the instructions here given, and he will yet form habits of faithfulness and punctuality.

The record of scholar number (2), Mary Jane Hosmer, is good—is perfect. She entered the school on Monday, the second week of the term, (September 11,) and during her connection with it was not once absent nor once tardy. She was doubtless prompt in her recitations, faithful and obedient as a scholar. Let her name be placed on the ROLL OF HONOR.*

The spaces above the light blue lines are intended for the record of morning attendance. Those below, for the record of afternoon attendance. The letter "E" indicates the date of enrollment in school.

Blank spaces indicate prompt attendance. Mary Jane Hosmer commenced school on Monday, the 11th day of September, and was present every half day during the remainder of the term. Her record is clean and beautiful to behold—not one mark against her. So let it remain. A small sloping mark (/) indicates absence during the entire half day.

A cross (X) indicates that the absence is excused by parents and teachers.

The figures in the daily columns indicate the tardiness of scholars, and show the number of minutes lost by such tardiness.

The several columns following next after those headed "Friday," and left blank in the "heading," are intended for a weekly summary of attendance, or for a record of the pupil's attendance on Saturday, when schools are kept on that day. In the "formula" they are used for weekly summaries of attendance.

Those teachers who may prefer to keep the record of their schools in a less comprehensive manner, omitting the figures representing tardiness, can use the space in the daily columns, immediately below the light blue lines, and directly opposite the scholars' names, for a daily record of attendance, and the space directly above for a daily record of deportment, using (10) as the maximum. deducting as many for misconduct during the day as the nature of his offense may demand, using zero (0) as wholly bad. In this case the figures in the lower space in the columns, headed "Weekly Summary," will be used as in the former method, to represent the number of days present during the week, and the figures above for the average deportment, using ten as the maximum, as in the daily record. The figures will be used also in the first column, headed "Total Summary," in the lower space, to signify the number of days present during the term, and those in the space above for his average deportment for the term. In the column headed "Days Absent," the upper space will be left blank.

The figures in the spaces above the light blue lines represent the number of minutes lost by tardiness during the week; those below the said lines the number of days present during the week.

The figures in the first column, under the head "Total Summary," in the upper spaces, show the total number of minutes lost by tardiness during the term; those in the lower spaces show the total number of days present during the term.

In the second column, under the same general head, the figures in the upper spaces show the number of times scholars were tardy during the term; those in the lower spaces show the total number of days absent during the term, recording only the number of days the scholar was absent while a member of the school.

When a scholar enters school after the commencement of the term, the letter "E" should be written in the space opposite his name in the column denoting the date of his enrollment, and a black, or red line, which is better, should be drawn against his name from the beginning of the term to the day of entrance, as in the case of Mary Jane Hosmer in the formula; and when a scholar leaves before the close of the term a similar line should be drawn against his name from the date of leaving to the date of entering, if he returns before the close of the term, otherwise draw a line to the end of the term. These lines will show what part of the term a scholar is not regarded as a member of the school.

In the column headed "Attendance Average," 100 denotes the highest degree of punctuality in attendance. Each half days absence, unless for sickness, may deduct two from 100 in the "Attendance Average."

John T. Mortimer was absent two whole days during the time given in the formula, hence his "Attendance Average" would be 96.

Mary Jane Hosmer was present and prompt every day after she entered the school, and hence her "Attendance Average" is 100, given in the formula.

*The Author is indebted to Hon. O. P. Fitzgerald, Superintendent of Public Instruction of the State of California, for his idea of making the "Roll of Honor," as contained in the High School Registers, a prominent part of such Registers. Also for the suggestion of making a "General Historical Record of the School and District" a part of those Registers, where the teacher can record any important event or events which may, from time to time, occur in the District.

A great writer has said:

“Order is Heaven’s First Law.”

The Family, the School and the State is the Trinity in Unity in our National Government.

As is the Family, so is the School;
And as the School, so the State.

In the Family, and in the School as well,
Let the Child’s first lesson be OBEDIENCE TO LAW,
And the peace of the State is secure.
